The environmental initiative of Bertelsmann

BERTELSMANN

Bertelsmann regards climate change and environmental protection as central issues in our business and in society today.

This is why we work in partnership with employees and stakeholders to reduce our direct and indirect greenhouse gas emissions as part of our overall drive to limit our environmental impact.

We will work continuously to improve our strategy.

In keeping with our decentralized corporate philosophy, we expect our divisions to take responsibility for sustainable management. This helps protect the climate and environment.
